APOTHEKAN

1976

To the Class of 1976

I welcome this opportunity to extend congratulations and best wishes to all members of the Class of 1976.

The College of Pharmaceutical Sciences has been affiliated with Columbia University since 1904. During these years this relationship had had many mutually rewarding aspects. At the beginning of this century, when institutions of higher learning were assuming responsibilities for professional education and training, the College of Pharmacy helped provide the University with a base to expand its professional programs.

Throughout these many years the College of Pharmaceutical Sciences has set a pattern for innovative and progressive programs in pharmaceutical education. Its emphasis on research, on curricular change to meet societal needs have been acknowledged throughout the profession, and have brought credit to the University. It is, therefore, with no small measure of regret that the University must reluctantly accept the closing of one of its affiliate institutions.

As you now face the future, however, you must be well aware of the prodigious changes that are now occurring in the pharmaceutical profession. Along with the new standards of practice that have evolved, you must make personal commitments to stay abreast of new developments in your field and be receptive to ideas that can improve the delivery of health care to the public.

In a manner characteristic of your alma mater, you can accept additional responsibilities by promoting the development of standards of continuing competency, pharmaceutical specialities and peer review. These are exciting and challenging times for pharmacy and I am confident that you can meet these challenges decisively.

William J. McGill
President

To the Class of 1976:

One cannot escape the significance of writing this last Dean's Message to the Class of 1976. I have approached this moment with sadness, and yet with some sense of historical purpose and pride.

This final graduation also marks the 148th year of the College's birth. As the second oldest institution of its kind in the Western Hemisphere, The College does indeed have a long and exceptional record of accomplishments and achievements in pharmaceutical education. The College's greatest contributions, however, have been visible through the outstanding careers of alumni, whose individual accomplishments have set CPS alumni apart from all other comparable institutions.

The Class of 1976 is somewhat symbolic of both the difficult and the rewarding aspects of the College's history. No other class was so deeply affected by the College's survival problems, and no heavier academic demands were ever placed on another class. When the decision to phase out was made, two specific objectives were established: First, to insure that educational quality would not be compromised and that all energies and resources be directed toward strengthening the existing programs. Second, that academic standards be maintained so that no student would obtain a degree from the College without appropriate levels of achievement. Reaching for this first goal made the second even more difficult for students. The pressures were unparalleled since no second chances were possible. I am confident that both objectives were satisfied and that the Class of 1976 can proudly join the alumni ranks.

As alumni, we will all have to confront the reality that no physical manifestation of our alma mater will exist. We are not, however, without some psychic comfort. I have no doubt that you will come to recognize how your education has served as a base for successful career endeavors or for further education. It is factors such as these that bind CPS alumni together and that are so readily apparent at professional and scientific meetings. I hope you will share in this enthusiasm which itself is timeless and requires no physical facilities to promote.

Please accept my congratulations on your achievement, and my best wishes for success and happiness.

Sincerely,

DEDICATION

The College Of Pharmaceutical Sciences, the second oldest institution of its kind in the United States, has, for 147 years, consistently provided responsible professionals, aware of their roles in the various fields of pharmacy and receptive to the ever growing needs of the profession.

As the college is now closing, it is only appropriate for us to reflect upon its contributions over the years and to dedicate this yearbook as a testimony of our respect to our Alma Mater and of the inspiration which we have found in her history.

For this reason we, the class of 1976, dedicate this last APOTHEKAN to all those associated with our institution; its founders, students, faculty, administration and staff; who, throughout the years, have shared in its growth and contributed to its history.

PHARMACEUTICAL SCIENCES

J. BU CALO

The Class of 1976 gratefully acknowledges the financial support for this yearbook from the Samuel J. Moritz Fund, at the College of Pharmaceutical Sciences, Columbia University. We would particularly like to express our thanks and appreciation to Mr. Leroy A. Moses, Executor of the Estate of Samuel J. Moritz, for his understanding and thoughtfulness.

THE COLLEGE OF PHARMACEUTICAL SCIENCES

The Shakespeare Tavern, 1829

The College of Physicians and Surgeons on Barclay Street

In the enlightened atmosphere of 1829, aroused members of the pharmaceutical community expressed concern over the complexities of the profession and of the training necessary for its practice. In March of 1829, John Keese, a graduate of Philadelphia College of Pharmacy, suggested that a College of Pharmacy be founded in New York. Some of the most reputable apothecaries ratified its constitution on the 18th of that month at the famous Shakespeare Tavern on Fulton and Nassau Streets, with John Keese serving as its first president.

In December the College held its first lectures at the College of Physicians and Surgeons. Lecture subscriptions were sold at $3.00 and lectures on Chemistry, Physics, and Materia Medica were delivered by Doctors John Torrey and J. Smythe Rogers. In the spring of 1831, despite moving its administrative facilities to the "New Dispensary," the College granted its first degree to George C. Close.

The College offered lectures at several locations until 1837, when lectures were included at the New Dispensary. Just as the College was about to expand its curriculum in 1841, it was dispossessed and forced to relocate at 285 Broadway, above Lockwood's Bookstore. Additional courses were not offered until 1845, when the College relocated along with the bookstore to 411 Broadway, at which point they were promptly discontinued until 1848. In 1849 tuition was increased.

Moving to the "New York Medical College" in 1850, the College took with it 26 students registered in Chemistry, 23 in Materia Medica, and none in Botany. Botany became requisite for diploma.

The first black student was accepted to the College in 1852 but was refused admission to the Medical College for lectures. The College actively sought to move, but, unable to find other quarters, refunded his money.

As the number of students began to decline, the Board of Trustees sought closer supervision of teaching activities and actively campaigned for students. In 1857 the College was faced with foreclosure.

The College offered its first public commencement in the spring of 1863, granting five degrees, one to Mary C. Putnam, the College's first woman graduate and later, a prominent physician.

From 1869 to 1871, Dr. E.R. Squibb delivered a series of lectures on Pharmacy, and in 1872, was elected as an honorary member of the College.

The New York Medical College, 90 East 13th Street.

THE NEW BUILDING OF THE COLLEGE OF PHARMACY

Nos. 209 and 211 East Twenty-Third Street, New York.

When purchased in 1878, the Calvary Chapel at 209-211 East 23rd Street was adapted to provide laboratories, lecture halls, and a library. In 1892, three lots were purchased on 68th Street and Broadway, and a new building was finally opened in 1894. The old building was subsequently sold for $84,000.

The expenses of the College rapidly multiplied and by 1895 the strictest economy had to be practiced to avoid debt. During the 1895-96 academic year the College announced its first deficit of $8,000.

The construction of the new building was the best for its day. The space on the first floor was allocated to the library, a large meeting room, and a small office for the Secretary to the State Board of Pharmacy. The auditorium seated more than 350 persons and extended through the second and third floors. The pharmacy laboratory occupied the fifth floor, and the chemistry laboratory occupied the sixth.

An inventory taken in the year 1900 showed the total value of the property of the College, including real estate, equipment, apparatus, books, etc., to be nearly $265,000.

In the early 1900's, lab study became obligatory and the former evening classes were replaced by day instruction. At this time enrollment dropped off and a return to half-day sessions was proposed. The Faculty objected to this backward move and so the matter was dropped.

In 1901 the office of the Dean was created, and Professor Henry H. Rusby became the first elected Dean.

The first diploma, issued to Mr. George C. Close, in 1831

On the initiative of the College of Pharmacy, an effort was made in 1892 to establish some sort of relationship with Columbia University, but after many discussions nothing came of this proposal until 1902, when Nicholas Murray Butler became president of the University. He immediately inquired as to whether or not the College would be inclined to become an integral part of the University. An affiliation proposal was ratified and accordingly, the College of Pharmacy became a part of Columbia University on July 1, 1904.

In 1895 the College announced that in their opinion its two year program might be sufficient for the average Pharmacist, but it did not meet the needs of those desiring a front-rank position in the profession and accordingly, an optional fifteen week post graduate program was offered leading to the degree of Doctor of Pharmacy (Phar. D.). In 1905 the College offered two undergraduate programs, one leading to the University degree of Pharmaceutical Chemist, and one granting the Graduate in Pharmacy (Ph. G.) diploma of the College.

For many years the majority of applicants elected the College class program even though many had the qualifications for admission to the University class. The two year program for Pharmaceutical Chemist was extended to three years in 1915 and to five days weekly in 1927. A four year program leading to the B.S. degree established in 1913, and in 1919 the baccalaureate degree was made prerequisite for the Doctor of Pharmacy program, which had been extended to two years.

The College enjoyed extended enrollment for a number of years and in 1928, the College graduated its largest class of 357. However, in the period of depression, enrollments diminished and in 1935, only 76 students received diplomas. In 1921 the College program was extended to three years, and in 1931 the College began to phase out its program for Pharmaceutical Chemists. A four year program was instituted for those entering in 1932. The College announced in 1936 the phase out of its three year program.

During World War II, the College adopted a trimester program in an effort to secure deferrment for its students. This plan continued until October of 1946, when the customary program was resumed. In 1942 the College began training hospital corpsmen for the US Navy. A three month course was given under the command of the Coast Guard, and, in all, the College assisted in the training of nearly 1200 corpsmen in a two year period.

During the post-war years the College saw some improvements in physical facilities, and student whose educations were interrupted were able to receive their degrees.

In 1967 the American Council on Pharmaceutical Education first placed the College on probation in regard to accreditation. At that time they were satisfied with only minor renovations on the building and the hopes of a new building at some future date.

Unable to gain any assistance from Columbia University, the College hoped to find aid through affiliation with another institution. Various proposals were made and, as discussions proved unprofitable, the College was again placed on probation.

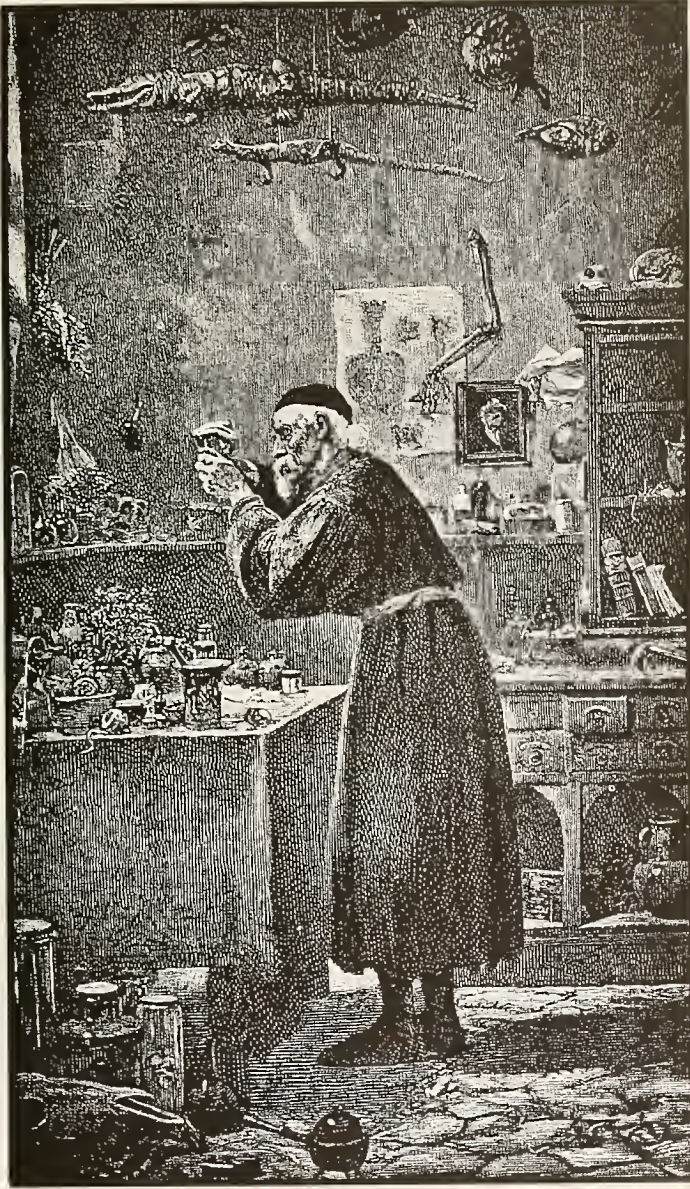

On January 9, 1973 the ACPE informed the College that unless an adequate phase out plan was instituted it would lose its accreditation. A plan was submitted by the Board of Trustees an accreditation was extended until June, 1976.

On May 12, 1976, the College of Pharmaceutical Sciences celebrated its last graduation exercises with Columbia University. On May 14, 1976, a final private commencement was held by the the College at the Americana Hotel.

Doctor of Pharmacy

Theodore Louis Nappi

Ashok has lived an international life. Born in Nairobi, Kenya, he graduated from the Duke of Gloucester High School there, and received his BS in Chemistry from Bombay University, India. He was previously employed as a research assistant at Janeway Children's Hospital in St. John's, Newfoundland, Canada.

A resident of Carbonear, Newfoundland, Ashok describes himself as a freak for the cold weather sport of ice hockey. Looking ahead, Ashok aspires towards a future in business.

ASHOK ACHARYA

MITCHELL F. BADER

Mitch is a native New Yorker. He lives in Forest Hills and is employed at the Newton Pharmacy. Previously, he attended Fredonia State, but transferred to CUCPS in 1973.

"Master" Bader belongs to several professional organizations including SAPHA and SPSSNY, and has been active on the Apothekan business staff. Mitch's future aspirations are towards clinical pharmacy.

Jim is a native Buffalonian, and he and his wife, Sharon, make their home there. Before coming to CUCPS, he attended SUNY at Buffalo.

Tennis, baseball, woodworking, and fishing fill Jim's free time, and he is an avid chess player. Jimmy spends most of his remaining time listening to music, and claims to know everything you want to know about stereo, but were afraid to ask. He is also a member of Delta Sigma Theta. Owning and operating a pharmacy in a professional fashion (putting the label on the outside of the bottle) are his goals for the future.

JAMES BALLICHINO

MICHELLE VICTORIA BENSON

Michelle is one of the more fashionable members of the class. A native Manhattanite, she attended SUNY at Brockport before coming to CUCPS. An active member of the black students organization, B.A.D., Michelle has served as its secretary. Michelle enjoys reading in her leisure time, which perhaps reflects her wish for the future--to live a happy, meaningful life.

Gary is an original, that is, one of the members of the class entering CUCPS in 1971. In addition to being a member of Rho Chi, he has been on the Dean's List, a member of SAPHA-SSPSNY, and a roving photog for the Apothekan. "The Fonz" is also an impressive guitarist, as Bill and Mark will testify. What does the future hold for Gary? . . . Dentistry anyone?

GARY M. BERKOWITZ

JACOB N. BLATT

Jake resides in Brooklyn with his wife, Michelle, and their daughter, Rivka. He graduated from NYU in 1970 with a BA in Biology, and attended Rijksuniversiteit Centrum te Antwerpen Hogeschool voor Wetenschappen en Techniek. (Say that five times fast and you'll know why he left!) Jake transferred to CUCPS in 1973.

Jake is a member of Tau Sigma Phi and also enjoys photography and chess. A member of SAPHASPSNY, he hopes to continue for a Pharm. D. and a career in administration.

Mark is our super-senior. He entered CUCPS in 1969, but took an extended leave of absence. He has worked at Co-Op and Royal Pharmacies for a total of 10 years (and is still pushing a broom!).

Mark is a member of Delta Sigma Theta and a creative copy writer for the Apothekan. Around classes he is often seen in the company of Ralph Goldstein; smiling, sleeping, smoking, or playing cards. Mark also plays his organ and piano. Mark hopes to be licensed in Florida as well as New York (in case the state board looks for him), His goals are to be a retail pharmacist and/or a chain store owner.

MARK MICHAEL BROOK

MARK NELSON BRUECKL

Mark is our energy from Cheektowaga, NY. Before coming to CUCPS he attended SUNY at Buffalo. Mark now lives with his wife, Sandy, and the Cookie Monster in Brooklyn. He has been on the Dean's List and is a member of Rho Chi.

Mark has served as a roving photographer for the Apothekan, is a talented guitarist (if his G-string isn't broken), and is a road rally enthusiast. He hopes to do graduate work in pharmacology.

Brooklyn born Chuck presently lives in Valley Stream. A graduate of Valley Stream High, he later went on to SUNY at Fredonia.

Now working at Caliber Pharmacy, Charles has some prior experience at Marshall's and Rasa pharmacies where he learned how to pour one ounce of Elixophyllin out of a gallon bottle.

In the future, Charles hopes to persue a Pharm. D. degree in hospital administration.

CHARLES BUCALO

CHARLES THOMAS CALVANO

Chuck was born in the Italian section of Jersey City, where white ties and black shirts are standard dress. He attended Upsala College before coming to CUCPS in 1973. "Chucka" is business manager of the Apothekan. He was also elected to Who's Who in American Colleges.

Outside of school, Chuck is a member of Theta Epsilon and Tri Beta. He and his wife, Karen, enjoy art, philosophy, nature, and rock music. Chuck's future plans include retail pharmacy, and he hopes to own his own business.

Bong, a native of Yonkers, attended SUNY at Oneonta, where he received a BS in Geology (and to this day he still loves to play with rocks). He entered CUCPS in 1973. Bong is single for now, but plans to marry in July of 1976.

Though a majority of his time is now spent studying, Bong enjoys tennis, golf, ceramics, and photography.

After graduation, Bong would like to open a pharmacy in the New York area with some of his classmates.

BONG CHIN

FONG CHIN

Fong, not to be confused with his brother Bong, earned a BA in Biology from NYU before coming to CUCPS in 1973. Formerly a biochemistry research assistant at Long Island Jewish Hospital, he is now employed at Le Mac Drug.

In his free time he enjoys cars, tropical fish, and most sports. He and his wife, Eileen, presently live in Yonkers. Plans for the future include hospital pharmacy, or administration, or doing a Levy's Real Jewish Rye Bread commerical.

Louie is often seen speeding to Daddino's Pharmacy in Eastchester on his Kawasaki motorcycle. He attended Pace University, received an AAS in Pharmacy from Westchester Community College, and came to CUCPS in 1973.

Louie enjoys playing guitar, and sports. He's a member of the CUCPS Frisbee Brigade, which is most active between classes and mail trucks. For the future, Louie has business aspirations and may work towards a MS in Marketing.

LOUIS EUGENE COBUZZI

MIKE COHEN

Mike has found a home at CUCPS and hopes to find a future in hospital pharmacy. Now an intern at Coney Island Hospital, he moonlights at Nathan's and loves those knishes. A graduate of Erasmus Hall High School, Mike attended Bronx Community College before transferring to CUCPS in 1973.

Mike's relaxation time is spent listening to music. "Mr. Excitement" freaks out over Bach and Beethoven.

Bill has diverse interests. He's a guitarist and is well-known for keeping all the residents of the Henry Hudson Hotel awake during jam sessions with Gary Berkowitz and Mark Brueckl. Bill enjoys sports and will be best remembered as one-half of the winning egg-toss team of Cohen and Hassan at Field Day, 1975.

A native of Newark, Bill still claims New Jersey as his home state. After graduation, he hopes to own a community pharmacy.

WILLIAM B. COHEN

PHILIP JOSEPH D'ADDONA

Phil and his wife, Corinne, live in Bay Ridge, Brooklyn. Before entering CUCPS, he attended Pace University and earned a BS in Biology.

Phil keeps very busy working at Riso Pharmacy. In his spare time he enjoys sports, especially football (it pays to know chiropractors!). He is a member of SAPHA-SPSSNY. Phil's interests lie in hospital pharmacy, but medical school is a possibility.

Barbara is one of the more recent additions to the class. After receiving an AAS in Chemistry from Westchester Community College, She entered CUCPS.

Previously, Barbara has interned at the Burke Rehabilitation Center in White Plains. She is a member of SAPHA-SPSSNY, and enjoys tennis in her spare time, whenever that might be. Plans for the future include specialization in pharmacy law and business administration.

BARBARA ANN DEAN

ANTHONY DeVINCENZO

Tony is one of Columbia's Brooklyn Boys. He came to CUCPS with the Bobst and Regent's scholarships (the only money the school ever got from him on time).

Tony's a genuine outdoorsman (note his shoes). During his time at the College, he worked at Coney Island Hospital, Brooklyn Children's Museum, and Osborne Labs (can't seem to hold a job). He is a member of Rho Chi, the Dean's List, and "da Boys". You can tell a man's profession by his technique, and Tony wants to be a veterinarian.

Before entering CUCPS in 1973, Tom attended Fordham University, where he earned a BS in Biology. This fine Irish lad is a member of SAPHA-SPSSNY, and the Microbiology Club (or is it the Fungi Fan Club?). He has also been on the Dean's List.

Tom has been known to spend his lunch hour tending the CUCPS library and/or watering his green carnation. He hopes, in the future, to land a job with an international pharmaceutical company, and to eventually have some free time.

THOMAS M. DOLAN

TAMMY EHRLICH-NEUMAN

Tammy lives with her husband, Nathan, in Washington Heights. She received a BA from Queens College in 1971, and was in the CUCPS graduate program (some of us may remember her as a TA in chemistry lab). She began the pharmacy program in 1973.

Tammy is a member of SAPHA-SPSSNY, and has been on the Dean's List. She teaches dance and music, and enjoys tennis, skiing, and hiking. Tammy would like to continue in a Pharm. D. program or a hospital residency.

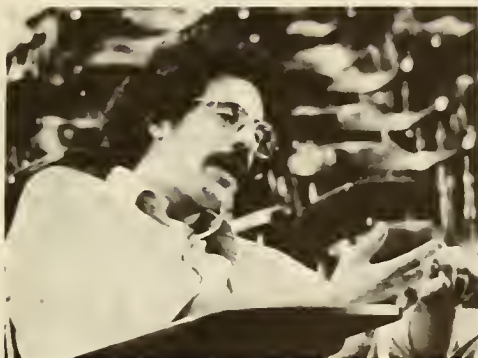

Helen is engaged in a gamut of school activities including Anodyne copy editor, Apothekan associate editor, and SAPHA and ASHP. Another of Federosky's school duties is acting as Brighty Shashou's walking English dictionary.

In her leisure, Helen's a real hockey puck and one can find her following it around on T.V. A graduate of the retail trade, she is presently employed at Passaic General Hospital. After graduation, Helen intends to carry on graduate studies in pharmacology.

HELEN M. FEDORIW

LYLE FINGER

After graduating from Queens College with a BA in Chemistry, Lyle joined CUCPS in 1973. He has been named to the Dean's List, and is also a member of SAPHA, ASHP, ACS, and Tau Delta Phi.

In his leisure, Lyle enjoys sports, traveling, and working on various research projects (ask him about his recent junket to the wilds of West Virginia). Looking ahead, Lyle will pursue a Pharm. D. program, and eventually hopes to work in a clinical setting.

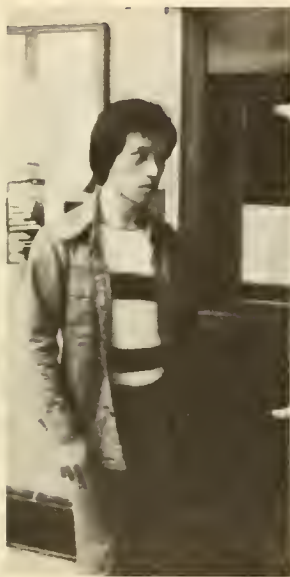

George is one of the most active students, belonging to more organizations than the school has. A member of Rho Chi, SAPHA-SPSSNY, and the Apothekan staff, he still finds time to be secretary/treasurer of the Student Council, Social Committee co-chairman, and even to attend classes. In his spare time he is an active sportsman; wildlife trembles at his feet!

George graduated Magna Cum Laude from CUCPS in 1975 with a BS in Health Sciences. He is applying to medical school, and hopes to maintain a background in pharmacology.

GEORGE JOHN FLESZAR

SIMON FUNG

Simon came to the US from Hong Kong, where he was born and attended the Pui Ching Middle School. He has received a BS in Chemistry from the University of Wisconsin.

At CUCPS, Simon is a member of SAPHA-SPSSNY. In his spare time, he and his wife, Tong Pu, enjoy swimming and bowling.

Future plans see Simon as a part of the Pharmaceutical Industry.

We know Alex was born but we're not sure where. Alex lives in Little Neck, Long Island, but we don't know with whom. We know Alex works but we're not sure where.

We do know that Al graduated Bayside High School and earned a BS at York College. We are sure that he attends class. We know that he drives a generic Mazda, but we don't know where to. After graduation Alex hopes to work in a hospital but we don't know in what capacity.

ALEX GALPERIN

LORRAINE GESUALDI

Lori served time at St. Lawrence University before coming to CUCPS. Here she has found time to be SAPHA-SPSSNY president, a member of ASHP, the Apothekan staff, and Rho Chi. Lori has also served as student representative to the Board of Trustees of CUCPS, and has been elected to Who's Who in American Colleges. When asked what she does in her spare time, she exclaimed, "I'll never tell," and after seeing her on the Lilly trip, we all know why!

Lori was accepted to the Wayne State Pharm. D. program, and desires to persue a career in hospital pharmacy administration.

Ralph was an original member of the CUCPS class of '74. Married last June, Ralph's wife, Fran, claims that at night he mysteriously metamorphasizes into Dr. Hassan (wellyouknow deese!). Ralph thinks he is the good Doctor's number one son.

He is a member of SAPHA-SPSSNY, Delta Sigma Theta, and can usually be found in close proximity to Mark Brook. A former member of the Dean's List, Ralph is an advocate of continuing education, and hopes to soon own his own business.

RALPH GOLDSTEIN

PETER D. GOODMAN

Peter, better known around CUCPS as Dave or PDR, works at Phillips Pharmacy (no relation to Gail).

Dave received a BS from SUNY at Buffalo. A member of SAPHA, he has been on the Dean's List. Peter is active in the Young Republicans of Westchester, and plays golf in his spare time. More recently, he has been involved in a pharmacological research project under the tutelage of Dr. Ehrenpreis. His future plans include post-graduate work in pharmacology.

Michael Frederick is one of "da Boys" from "da Bronx". He graduated from St. Raymond's Boys High School (you always thought he was Jewish). An important asset to student affairs, he was vice-president of the 4th year class, and representative to the Student Council.

Never a dull moment with Mike, he loves sports, especially bowling, softball, and football (be on his side, it's safer!). Working at Mt. Sinai Medical Center has formed Mike's future outlook towards a goal in hospital administration.

MICHAEL FREDERICK GUCKENBERGER

GARNJANA HANSUBUDOM

Gigi, as she is known to all but those who CAN pronounce her name, was born in Bangkok, Thailand, and received an AAS from Bronx Community College in 1973.

At CUCPS she is a member of Rho Chi and in her spare time enjoys playing basketball, cooking Italian food, and practicing her pie-eating. (Gigi proudly displays a trophy for winning the pie-eating contest at Field Day, 1975.)

Gigi's immediate plans include working in hospital pharmacy and perhaps later, pursuing graduate work in pharmacology or medicine.

This is BIG DAVE. He's one of the few "5-year" men, and in that time he has joined two organizations, SAPHA, and "da Boys". Recently, however, he has become more school-minded, and is copy editor of the Apothekan.

Dave is an excellent guitarist, a damned good poker player (unfortunately), and an ace skier; it's beyond anyone how he can get all that body going in one direction at one time.

At CUCPS he has received the Rho Chi Scholarship Award. A Master's degree and possibly a Pharm. D. are what Dave is aiming at after graduation.

DAVID M. HOCHMAN

JAMES HOPKINS

James was born in Charleston, South Carolina and now lives in Brooklyn, where he graduated from Canarsie High School.

Jimmy was the former vice-chairman of the black students association, B.A.D. He is presently totally engrossed in his educational studies, spending his spare time in pensive thought.

James is not sure if he should take the high road or the low road, but whichever, he will do well.

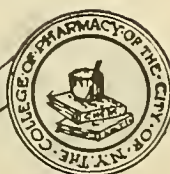

Charles recently drove 2,000 miles to and from Indian-No-Place (Indianapolis), at which point he realized he forgot his car.

An original member of the class of '74, Chuck has been active in the Columbia band, and Sigma Mu, occupying the positions of president, vice-president, treasurer and secretary, all at separate times of course. Presently employed at Cambridge Chemists, Charles professes a desire to own his own pharmacy.

CHARLES F. HURD

LEWIS JAGUST

Louie is a member of the original 1971 class. His hopes of a possible future in pharmaceutical research brought Louie to the College of Pharmacy (isn't he sorry!). His hobbies include stamp collecting and photography, and he's also an avid movie-goer, with a special liking for the old classics.

Lewis has just landed that crucial first job in a drug store. Now he finally has an answer to that ubiquitous question, "Got any experience, Kid?"

Anwar is a native of Pakistan, where he attended Aisha Bawany College before transferring to CUCPS in 1973. He is a member of SAPHAS-SPSSNY, ASHP, and has been on the Dean's List.

Anwar's work experience covers hospital and retail pharmacy. He intends to continue graduate work in pharmaceutical chemistry.

ANWAR GHANI KAMANI

ASHALATA KANUKOLLU

Asha, or Koala Kanani, or Kasha Knish, as she is known, was born in Madyas, India, where she graduated the S.S.S. Kololo (not to be confused with Kanukollu) High School in East Africa. She then went on to receive a BS in Chemistry, Zoology and Botany from Andhra University, India.

A member of SAPHA and a recipient of the Womens Award, Asha spends her free time doing classical Indian dance, or dancing with classical Indians. Previously involved in volunteer work at Columbus Hospital, Asha aspires to be a registered Pharmacist.

Donna was born in Kingston, Jamaica, and now resides in the Bronx. She transferred to CUCPS in 1973. Formerly employed as a research technician at the University of the West Indies, Donna now works at the Upper Manhattan Medical Group Pharmacy.

Donna enjoys music, poetry, and modeling (not with clay or toy cars), in addition to being secretary of BAD and a member of SAPHA-SPSSNY. Future aspirations are many; attending medical school, becoming a minister of health, going into research, becoming a lawyer or an Indian chief.

DONNA ALEXIS KEELING

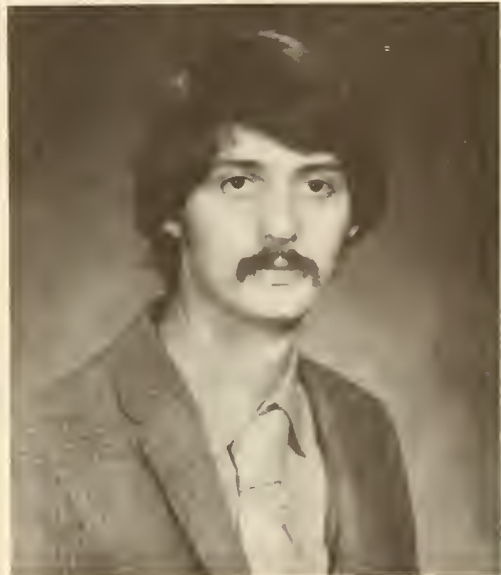

STEPHAN KINSEY

Stephan received a BS in Health Sciences from CUCPS in 1975. He is a member of Delta Sigma Theta and works on the staff of the Afternoon Bible Club of the Mennonite Church, and is the Sunday School superintendent. (He's currently doing his internship with God.)

Post-gradually, Steve intends to continue his education, farm, participate in the church, play the flute, and continue to be the life of the party.

Pete's single, and doesn't see marriage in his near future (he answers any self-addressed stamped envelopes.) He earned an AAS from Westchester Community College, and spent some time in the Navy as a Radarman 3rd Class. Peter is president of the CUCPS Frisbee Brigade, and also enjoys softball in his free time. After graduation, he plans to open his own retail pharmacy.

PETER J. LALLONE

DOUGLAS BRIAN LaROCCA

Doug utilized his psychology degree from NYU for social work in the South Bronx before deciding on a less dangerous profession, pharmacy.

Involvement defines Doug's time at CUCPS. He's vice-president of the senior class, Apothekan photographer, and has been elected to Who's Who in American Colleges. He lives with his wife, Marge, and their dog, Domino in Staten Island. Doug owns several cars, Nikon cameras, and hopefully in the future, a retail pharmacy.

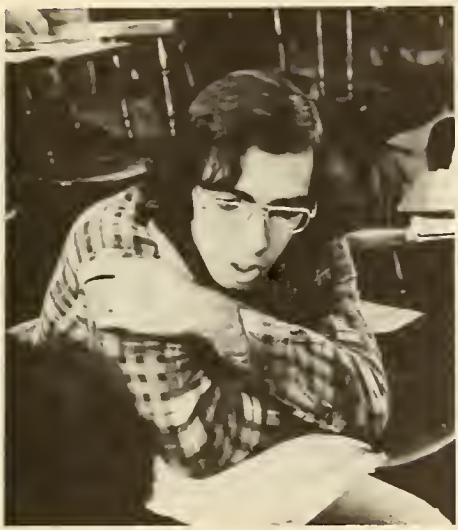

Leung is from Hong Kong, and plans to return there to practice pharmacy after graduation. He had taken a leave of absence from CUCPS, at which time he worked and was married.

A member of the Chinese Culture Club, Leung was the all-time ping-pong champion at CUCPS back in '69. Leung complains that most Chinese food gives him heartburn. He has also been known to be without his lab coat due to a problem in getting it back from the French cleaners.

KON YING-LEUNG

EDWIN LEVINSTIM

Ed Win, a native of the Bronx, is a graduate of Bronx High School of Science. He attended NYU and in 1973 transferred to CUCPS. A member of SAPHA, he doesn't let on as to what he does with his time in or out of school.

His wife, Kathleen, is usually home saying, "I wonder where the Edwin went?" Ed hasn't decided what he is going to do when he gets out of school but Kathleen says she thinks he's gonna be a pharmacist. (So do we!)

"Harpo" confines his activities to a few very specialized areas: 1. listening to the Rolling Stones, Beatles, and the Who, 2. xeroxing Lorrie's notes, 3. frying on the beach in Ft. Lauderdale, 4. playing tennis with Jimmy Connors, 5. preserving his red curly hair, and 6. perfecting the art of narcolepsy.

In the future, one may find Ira counting the receipts at East Drive Pharmacy. His "ambitions" are modest, he hopes to become a millionaire and retire to Ft. Lauderdale.

IRA MARK LIPPELL

ROSA M. LOPEZ

Rosa likes reading, listening to music, sewing, and singing in the shower (for which we have all volunteered to sing background!). When she has free time she crams for exams.

Rosa presently works at Gilmore Pharmacy, and has previously worked in the Roediger Lab at CUCPS. Rosa's a member of SAPHA, ASHP, and the Apothekan staff. Her future is open to many possibilities; hospital practice, a Master's in Public Health, and married life.

Kevin earned an AAS in Chemistry from Westchester Community College before coming to CUCPS. He's employed at Ashburton Medical Center Pharmacy.

Kevin forms the backbone of the CUCPS Frisbee Brigade--he's taller than the others. Between studying and frisbeeing, Kevin enjoys listening to music. Kevin has no definitive plans about what type of pharmacy practice to pursue after graduation.

KEVIN CHARLES MANNING

BILL MARKOWITZ

Bill was born and lives in the Bronx. He attended Lehman College before coming to CUCPS in 1973. Bill works at Courtesy Drugs. At school he's known as Hershel Zamechek's right-hand man (or left-hand, depending on where he sits). Upon graduation, Bill plans a profitable future in community pharmacy.

Tracey was born and raised in Queens. Her BS degree in Biology from SUNY at Stony Brook, in 1973, reflects her ecology minded outlook. Presently working at Wadsworth Hospital, Tracy enjoys bicycling, traveling, and going to parties.

Although undecided on how to achieve it, Tracy hopes to become the world's greatest pharmacist.

TRACEY ANN MARRIN

CHARLES MASTELLONE

Charlie is an active sports buff. He enjoys golf, skiing, and tennis. At CUCPS he has been on the Dean's List and is a member of SAPHA - SPSSNY. The future sees Charles continuing graduate work in pharmacology.

Work at D'Arco Pharmacy and studying fill most of Phil's time. After graduation Phil would like to pursue a Pharm. D. degree.

PHILIP JAMES MAYO, III

ELAINE MENDELL

With her heart left in Los Angeles, Elaine has spent part of her college career in the Big Apple. She entered CUCPS in 1973.

Although a member of Rho Chi and the Dean's List, Elaine is known for her ability to misspell simple words. Even with this problem, she still manages to write the most popular notes in the class. A self-proclaimed "timewaster", she spends her time doing needlepoint and playing the guitar and piano (simultaneously). After graduation, Elaine is inking towards an MS in Public Health and a Pharm. D.

Jay has been instrumental in setting up almost every student activity in the past 5 years. A member of the Student Council and the Apothekan staff, he also heads the Social Committee. Extracurricularly, Jay is still the organizer, getting together fishing trips and poker games.

For relaxation, he enjoys cooking for his wife, Nancy, (look out Julia Child!). A member of the Dean's List, Who's Who in American Colleges, the Apothekan staff, and number 15 on the FBI's list, Jay hopes to continue for a Master's and to own his own business.

JAY MESSEROFF

ANTHONY N. MONTALBANO

Tony, aka the "Mad Bomber", would now be serving time in the "Tombs" if it weren't for Dr. Galton's good nature, and the fact that no one can take a person in an orange leprechan cap seriously.

Though always on the move (if he's wearing sneakers, Tonys' career at CUCPS is expansive. A member of the Student Council, a former Anodyne news editor, and Kappa Psi Regent, Tony can be seen frequenting the roof, the yearbook office (he's associate editor), and classes (in that order). A martial arts enthusiast, he enjoys scuba diving, and is an avid CB'er. The future will find Tony in the company of much $, soaking in the sun.

Sammy, (alias the "Flash"), commutes every day from the Bronx to the College of Pharmacy in hopes of becoming a pharmacist. He previously attended Fordham University and Bronx Community College. At present, Sam is employed at Star Pharmacy in Manhattan.

Sam likes to spend his free time persuing sports, girls, partying, reading sci-fi, and listening to music (all at once!). Summing up his five years at CUCPS Sam stated (closely quoting) "Rock and Roll is more important than half of this stuff."

SAMUEL ANTHONY NAPOLITANO

THOMAS D. NOLA

CHINWUBA OKAFOR

Chinwuba's past education includes the College of Immaculate Conception, Enugu, Nigeria, and the Universitaire D'Abidjan, Ivory Coast. But desiring a more exotic setting, he came to New York. He received a BS in Health Sciences from CUCPS in 1975 and also a Rho Chi scholarship award.

A member of SAPHA-SPSSNY, Chinwuba enjoys outdoor sports, especially tennis. He plans to do graduate work in clinical pharmacy, and eventually to return to Nigeria to practice hospital pharmacy.

Alan has played a major role in the formative years of this graduating class. For three years (71-73) he was class president and led us with glory through the mismatched socks of Dr. Irwin. Then, one day, a star proclaimed the coming of a new leader, and Vic Radice rose to the apex.

Alan has worked at Beacon Pharmacy for as long as anyone can remember. Recently, during the rash of weddings, he entered the state of marital bliss with Beverly, who, like every other pharmacy student's wife, smilingly supports him. Alan serves the Apothekan as class historian. He is looking towards becoming a clinical pharmacist and obtaining a Pharm. D.

ALAN L. ORLANSKY

FRANK PALMERI

Frank received an AAS from Westchester Community College before coming to CUCPS. He works at Katonak Pharmacy, and the Burke Rehabilitation Center (he shares a padded cell with Bob Rothman). 4.0--Frank is president of Rho Chi Honor Society, and a member of SAPHIA-SPSSNY, and holds the world's record for chain-smoking; he's on the Surgeon General's wanted list. After graduation, Frank hopes to continue his study in Health Sciences.

Jack is not sure whether he wants to be a pharmacist or a librarian. He received a BA in Chemistry and Biology from the University of Bridgeport, in Connecticut.

A member of SAPHA and the Dean's List, Jack enjoys golf, tennis, skiing, and drawing straws with Tom Dolan to see who'll mind the library during lunch. Jack leaves his future open to all possibilities.

JACK A. POHL

Hersh has the dubious distinction of being the final graduate of CUCPS. Future plans include a career in pharmaceutical industry.

OUR FRESHMAN YEAR

On August 31, 1971, seventytwo students entered into the new and, ultimately, the final freshman class of the College of Pharmaceutical Sciences. Coming from a variety of backgrounds we had one thing in common, an interest in Pharmacy . . . or a job in a drugstore.

We were quickly introduced to school policy, as the upperclassmen attempted to sell us exams, notes, elevator passes, and sometimes the building itself! Had we only bought it then, it would have saved us some grief.

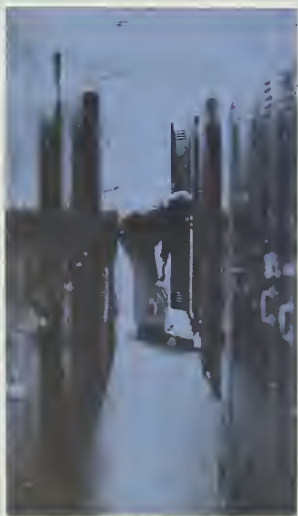

Classes with Dr. Louis (Ecosystems) Irwin brought us on safari to Central Park, resulting in two near arrests and some natural wonders. Under the guidance of Dr. John Cazazza, we learned the basics of General Chemistry and the joys of ETOH. Our resident mathematician, Erwin Lutwak, reviewed Elementary Functions and droned the Calculus Myth.

Apart from the sciences, Martin Levin, the master of wit, taught us the difference between graphorrhea and gonorrhea while opening his PREFACE TO COMPOSITION. Gerald Lucas paraded his Freudian slip through the Scientific Method, and Matthew Lipman strained the fine tone of Philosophy into the snores of slumber.

We cut classes, played football in the park, and learned to play Pinochle. The fraternities among us, Kappa Psi and DST, rushed candidates for their (final) freshman pledge calsses. In the course of the year we managed to hold a freshman-sophomore mixer and even sold blood to "Save Our School"!

OUR SECOND YEAR

We were now a group of fortytwo as our second year gave us new courses to master.

In Organic Chemistry, Dr. Suzanne Galton, with her toasted comrades, Morrisson and Boyd, built a world from alcohols of four carbons or less.

Air hockey, oscilloscopes, and double-parking on 125th Street filled our Tuesday mornings, as we ventured to the uptown campus for Physics with Dr. Mader. We graphed guns and butter with Dr. Karatzas in Economics, and as a class, unearthed our Contemporary Civilization and Hilda Blanco as well.

We took substantial, while not prominent, steps in our college lives, as we grew closer as a class unit. And as our school was placed on academic probation, the students and faculty became one faction affronting the administration.

Following "Transfer to Pharmacy Day" and the influx of students it brought, we found ourselves 142 strong.

Our first professional year brought us into an intimate encounter with Physiology, taught by Dr. Margret Staud. Her mini-quizzes produced attacks of digital diarrhea, and her afternoon finals meant come with dinner, blanket and pillow. Sue Matt's expert abilities helped to recover pilfered kymograph data, restoring decorum to the lab and bringing sighs of relief from George and Alan.

Physiology and Quant brought the advent of electronics to CUCPS, as tape recorders lined room 34 and calculators sprouted throughout the student body.

Dr. Rosoff taught us our first professional course, Physical Pharmacy. However, we had to suffer through its pre-requisite, Physical Chemistry, as well. Dr. Rosoff enlivened the class with the dance of the dumbbell molecule and gave 59 D's. He still can't understand why the man on the street performs better than we can on his exams.

Mark Weiss and George Santiccioli taught our final English courses, and Dr. Galton taught Biochemistry.

In the course of the year, plans for affiliation became plans for phase-out, and we had gained the distinction of becoming Columbia's last graduating class.

Our fourth year began on a strange note. With only two classes remaining and a large portion of our faculty already gone, the tone of our school was considerably more subdued. As the fifth year anxiously awaited graduation, we in the fourth year settled down to work in an atmosphere severely lacking in enthusiasm.

In Pharmacology, perhaps our single most important course, Dr. Ehrenpreis combined the finer points of drug action with our already extensive knowledge of Physiology. We could not have asked for a finer instructor and under his influence our attitudes as professionals grew.

Highly memorable was our final year with Dr. Galton. In an in depth look at Organic and Medicinal Chemistry we viewed the structures and activity relationships of most pharmaceutical agents. Index cards became a popular studying tool and as the year progressed huge stacks were amassed.

In both Microbiology and Pharmacognosy we were exposed to previously unexplored areas of our Pharmaceutical Education. Our previously unexplored instructor, Dr. Hassan, proved a unique experience and his amusing anecdotes about Fordham University often made us wish he had stayed.

Matthew Wiener taught an introduction to Dosage Forms in the first semester and we heard the first in a series of lectures on Hypertension that continued up until the State Board Review. Guy Bello, whose courage exceeded his abilities, made an excellent attempt at Pharmaceutical Calculations and Howard Weintraub lectured on Biopharmaceutics to a less than receptive, though highly somnolent audience.

This was a difficult year, presenting a considerable challenge to us all. But by May, spirits were lifted and all were in preparation for our final year, the final year of the College.

The fifth year began on a happy note. Dr's Romano, Wiener, and Satkosky formed the backbone of our curriculum. In Clinical Pharmacy we viewed the intricacies of hospital life at Lenox Hill, Montefiore, and Mt. Sinai, and under the tutelage of Dr's Petrello, Hunter, and Hayes, studied the combined aspects of disease states, diagnosis, and, most importantly, drug therapy.

Dispensing Pharmacy covered everything. We sa'ed, qs'ed, spatulated, triturated, sieved, "punched", and molded our way through anemia to xerostoma.

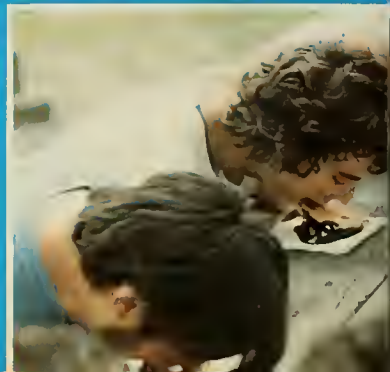

Our fifth year also had some lighter moments. For those eager to delve even deeper into the mysteries of Pharmacology, Dr. Ehrenpreis offered an advanced course which, in subsequent months, gave birth to the Bungarotoxin Fan Club. Dr. Dimendberg and his guest speakers gave us some pointers on how to make a lot of money in the field of Pharmacy. Mr. Gluck taught us more BS and Mr. Tumelty taught Pharmacy Law, pro and con.

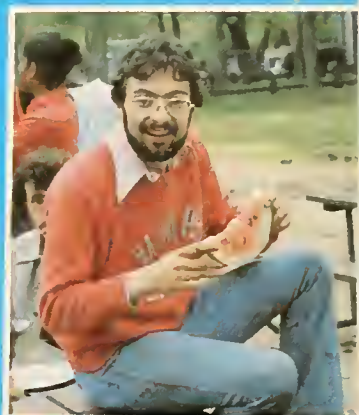

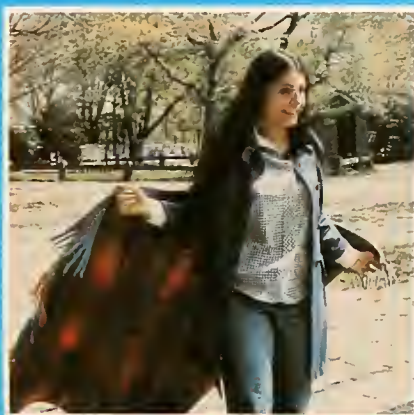

The student body endeavored to keep an optimistic outlook, and the last semester was peppered with more wine and cheese parties, the Lilly trip, and graduation.

May 14, 1976 marked the graduation of the final class of the College of Pharmaceutical Sciences. The 147 years of the College's existence remain as a permanent example of dedication and service to the pharmacy profession.

Hey! Whats he charge man?

I'd like to know, too.

Don't worry, I work cheap.

But have you seen him cut hair?

He cut my hair.

Will he cut Dave's hair like that?

But he's your buddy, Joe!

Looking back over the past five years, it would be both unfair and inadequate to call them anything but important and memorable, for they served as basis for our professional lives. Our experiences and challenges, in the face of a closing school, were entirely unique, presenting a set of events never before encountered by Columbia's students.

The College of Pharmacy always strove to provide a quality professional education enabling its graduates to assume important responsibilities in the health care fields. It has prepared its students with the professional and scientific expertise to utilize judgement in professional practice.

Presently, we find ourselves honoring Columbia's last graduates, while at the same time, expressing sorrow for the demise of our institution. We congratulate them, but regret that their joy should be tainted with such sorrow. It is unfortunate that the image of Pharmacy in New York City did not demand our survival.

Throughout its final years, the College endeavored to meet the ever growing demands of a pharmaceutical education. Despite its entanglements, both physical and financial, a professional stature was maintained, but only through the efforts of a concerned faculty, student body, and administration. Perhaps it would be better to remember the College for its past years rather than to speculate its future, for they were truly incomparable years.
